Aachen Falls To First U. S. Army Today

First of Major German Cities Taken After Seven-Day Siege

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 20—Ruined Aachen, a sprawling city of death and destruction, fell today to Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' U. S. First Army on the seventh day of its siege. Tonight the victorious Yanks started mopping up the last remnants of the nazi garrison, trapped on the outskirts.

The capture of the first major German city, a gateway to the Ruhr, was completed at 3:30 p. m., (9:30 a. m. CWT) official announcements from the field said.

The city is 340 miles from Berlin and 40 miles from Cologne on the Rhine. It had a peacetime population of 165,000.

The Doughboys had been attacking since Sept. 15, and for a week they had engaged in street-by-street fighting with bazookas, bayonets and self-propelled guns.

Warfare for Vanity

Aachen was left a mass of wreckage by fanatical German resistance.

Young German officers, many of them not long back from the Russian front, threw away their lives to gain another oak leaf cluster on their iron crosses—waging warfare for vanity.

The last convulsive gasp of resistance in the center of the city was at a large stone building in which 100 SS men had barricaded themselves in defiance of artillery which had pressed the defenders into an ever narrowing space.

Troops under the command of Lt. Col. Merril Daniel of Geneva, N. Y., knocked out his last major stronghold at 3:30 p. m., with direct fire from a 155 mm. gun. The gun literally knocked down the building.

"Aachen is ours," the officer said as he stood on the ruins of the building which had been used as a command post for the suicide stand.

Only Cleanup Job Left

"When we knocked out that building we knocked out the guts of their defense. Now we hold all the city proper and have only a cleanup job left in the outskirts."

The First Army fought a battle within a battle to win the ancient stronghold.

Having closed a ring around the city they fought off several Ger-

18,432 Voters in County Registered

Chicago, Oct. 20—(AP)—Registration in Illinois for the Nov. 7 presidential election has reached a record total of more than 4,500,000, officials said today.

This compared with a total vote of 4,262,196 in the 1940 presidential election and registration of 4,091,937 in the 1941 primary. Illinois did not adopt a statewide permanent registration law until 1942.

A survey conducted by the Associated Press by mailed requests to county clerks and a check of the 10 city election commissions showed a registration total of 4,501,551. In Cook county, the total had reached 2,420,853, a heavy total compared with the 1940 vote of 2,135,150. Downstate, the total was 2,080,701 or slightly less than the 1940 vote of 2,124,046.

Survey Released

Secretary of State Richard Yates Rowe at the same time released a survey showing a total vote of 4,511,253, including 2,089,530 downstate and 2,420,853 in Cook county.

The Associated Press survey showed at least 276,695 applications to date for absentee ballots all but a small portion of them from men and women in military service and more were arriving daily. Since a portion of these are from unregistered voters it will swell the total potential vote somewhat. The applications totaled 157,262 in Cook county and 119,433 downstate.

Rowe's estimated total soldier vote applications was 268,812 and

Fight for Prussia Nears Climax; Reds Form New Assaults

BULLETIN

London, Oct. 20—(AP)—Debrecen, third largest city of Hungary, has fallen to the Red army storming the Hungarian plain toward Budapest, 116 miles to the west, Marshal Stalin announced tonight in an order of the day.

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 20.—Berlin announced today that the Russians had moved up to another section of the East Prussian frontier 20 miles south of fallen Eydtkau, massing vast tank forces in the Rominter Heide, a favorite deer forest of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Enemy broadcasts also said the Germans had evacuated Hungary's sprawling third city of Debrecen, (122,517 population), 116 miles east of Budapest.

The Russians at midnight announced 11,000 prisoners were taken south of the old walled town which has become the junction of several railroads. A great tank battle had been raging there for two weeks and the Germans said 418 Russian tanks were destroyed in the fray. Moscow said the Germans lost 1,528 tanks.

Possibly a decisive battle was shaping up along the north, east and south frontiers of East Prussia. Berlin frankly asserted that "the twin battle for East Prussia is nearing a climax."

Moscow said nothing of the four-day offensive but allowed AP correspondents to radio that "the Russians entered reich territory."

Conditions Chaotic

Dispatches telephoned from Moscow reported chaotic conditions in Belgrade and Budapest, where German positions were declared deteriorating by the hour.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

By J. M. ROBERTS
(Substituting for D. MacKenzie)

General MacArthur returns to the Philippines with his usual flair for both confounding the enemy and staging a good show.

Striking with what Churchill calls "triphibious" force sufficient to give the Japanese a preview of what to expect against additional islands—his homeland, for instance—old "I will return" has by-passed strong enemy bases on southern Mindanao to obtain immediate objectives at minimum cost.

Even this force, however, is only a part of that available. The next few days should provide a clearer view of what impends. It seems likely, however, that the Leyte action is designed primarily to obtain airfields from which to dominate the entire archipelago. One field, near Tacloban, is almost in sight, and flatlands in the area offer plenty of room for more.

MacArthur developed a unique system of warfare in New Guinea with his specially-trained army "amphibs." These units operate their own landing craft to strike quickly in relatively small strength at key coastal points. They drive the enemy back from the coast cut off his supply routes and leave him to the jungle. Beachheads thus established immediately become bases for more of the same.

By this system the Sixth Army and others which will follow may establish quickly a series of bases which will resemble, offhand, an endlessly-laid string of pearls, but which will choke all Japanese strength south of Luzon where the principal battles between real armies can be expected.

Larger forces with formal naval support will be required at some points, principally Davao, Cebu, Negros and Mindora, which could contain air bases. Samar is so rough the coastal "pearls" probably will contain it, like numerous smaller islands.

The alternative would seem to be a direct massed assault on Luzon as soon as overwhelming air support from ground bases has been provided. As the Japanese did in 1941-42 this would leave most of the central and southern archipelago to dry up on the vine. But then we had

Presidential Race is Heading Toward Free-For-All Stage

Dewey Prepares New Attacks on FDR for Pittsburgh Crowd

En Route With Dewey to Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The presidential campaign appeared to have reached the free-for-all stage today as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey prepared a new attack in a Pittsburgh speech tonight (8 p. m., CWT—NBC) on what he has called President Roosevelt's "one man government" and the president readied an answer.

Paul Lockwood, the Republican presidential nominee's secretary, said Dewey's address would deal with "what happens to free labor under personal one-man government and what labor in America has a right to look forward to under a new administration."

This forecast the same sort of rolling barrage that the New York governor laid down against the New Deal administration in his Wednesday night indictment in New York City of Roosevelt's handling of foreign affairs. And there were indications that Roosevelt would counter-attack briskly in a speech Saturday night at a dinner there of the Foreign Policy Association.

In a speech designed not only to appeal for labor support in his campaign against a fourth term, but to bid strongly for Pennsylvania's 35 electoral votes, Dewey is expected to promise the unions direct representation in the cabinet and the consolidation of governmental functions affecting them in the labor department.

Endorses Warning

Before leaving Albany, Dewey issued a statement endorsing a state department warning of punishment for nazi war criminals who reportedly have further plans of exterminating Jews, Poles and others. Dewey added his own words that "certain and inevitable justice awaits them for these brutal and wanton murders if their schemes should be carried out."

The Republican theme that responsibility for the Japanese success at Pearl Harbor rested at Washington rather than with the Pacific fleet was pointed up anew by Rep. Maas (R.-Minn.) in a St. Paul speech saying:

"The naval board of inquiry set up by order of congress to conduct its own investigation of the Pearl Harbor incident has completed that report. x x x x The administration is seeking to suppress it until after election x x x I renew my charge that the president and high officials had word of the Pearl Harbor attack plans

Cesena Captured by Eighth Force

Rome Oct. 20—(AP)—British and Indian troops have entered Cesena, former German administration center on the main Bologna-Rimini highway in the Adriatic sector, allied headquarters announced today.

Meanwhile, other Eighth army troops made additional progress in bitter fighting in the mountainous area southwest of Cesena, while the Fifth army made local gains in the central Italian sector south of Bologna flanking the Bologna-Florence highway.

Cesena is about 20 miles inland from the Adriatic.

The heaviest fighting in the central sector in the Po valley drive was reported in the vicinity of Mone Belmonte and on route 65 north of Poggioli. The Germans were putting in heavy counter-attacks from their positions at Monte Belmonte, using tanks, mortar and artillery fire.

Hurricane Moves Through Carolina Leaving 37 Dead

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 20—(AP)—The interior of the Carolinas today felt the lash of the tropical storm which swept inland last night and headed slowly northward with decreasing intensity after killing 37 persons and doing heavy property damage in Cuba and Florida.

The Washington weather bureau announced in an 8:30 a. m. advisory that all danger of hurricane winds along the coast had passed. It said, however, that strong onshore winds would continue all day from Wilmington, N. C., northward to Long Island, and that tides would be above normal but not dangerous.

High winds and drenching rains accompanied the storm in its path through the Carolinas, but little damage and no casualties were reported.

Eleven civilian crewmen from New Orleans Port of Embarkation were reported drowned near Bradenton, Fla., at the height of the storm. Third Air Force headquarters said the men took to a dinghy when their crash boat apparently got into difficulty and search crews had found no trace of them. Earlier two persons were reported killed at Miami and 24 were known dead in Cuba.

Sweeps Across Florida

Two persons were dead and damage unofficially estimated at $20,000,000 inflicted on the citrus crop in Florida as the hurricane swept across the state from the populous Sarasota - Tampa - St. Petersburg area on the west coast to Jacksonville on the east.

It turned out to sea at Jacksonville and began its swirling course up the Atlantic seaboard, striking Savannah and Brunswick, Ga., before moving into the Carolinas.

Belated reports from Havana where the hurricane first struck, said 24 persons were killed in western Cuba and that the coastal port of Surgidero de Batanbano was destroyed.

SEARCH FOR 11 VICTIMS

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 20—(AP)—The public relations office of the Third Air Force headquarters here said today that 11 civilians crewmen from New Orleans Port of Embarkation apparently drowned yesterday near Bradenton at the height of the tropical hurricane which passed there.

The civilians were on a crash boat which left New Orleans enroute to Charleston, S. C., with a crew of 11 and was last heard from when it put in at Panama City Tuesday.

The announcement said the boat apparently got into trouble during the storm and the men took to a dinghy which capsized at the

Powerful Forces Land in Heart of Philippines: Japan's Defenses of Islands Split in Half by Yankees

Every Able-Bodied Survivor of Corregidor Back for Revenge

(By The Associated Press)

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 20 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur landed powerful invasion forces today in the heart of the Philippines, splitting in half Japan's defenses in that archipelago and fulfilling a vow made more than two years ago that "I shall return".

The ground forces, put ashore in Leyte Gulf from a huge convoy under a terrific naval and three beachheads along 11 miles threebeachheads along 11 miles of Leyte island's east coast.

Going ashore with MacArthur were every able-bodied survivor of Corregidor and Sergio Osmena, successor to the late Manuel Quezon as president of the Philippine commonwealth.

While men and supplies poured in to meet an estimated 225,000 Japanese in the Philippines under Field Marshal Juichi Terauchi, President Roosevelt messaged from Washington:

"The whole American nation today exults at the news that the gallant men under your command have landed on Philippine soil".

The Leyte landings put the invaders with 415 miles of Manila

Warning

(By The Associated Press)

"Decisive battles" are shaping up in the Philippines, Tokyo newspapers warned their readers today.

"With the enemy shifting his position for another frontal clash, after the disastrous defeat off Taiwan (Formosa) the Pacific war is entering the decisive stage", Domei news agency said in a broadcast.

Domei's report on what the three leading Tokyo newspapers had to say about the American invasion of the Philippines indicated that the Japanese press was still receiving a limited picture of the action.

Meantime, the Japanese-controlled Manila radio broadcast in English that the "Japanese army has routed United States re-invaders of the Philippines off the Leyte Gulf".

to the northwest and marked an advance of 600 miles north from MacArthur's base at Morotai.

Front line dispatches said the Leyte landings were preceded three days ago by landings on small islands guarding the entrance to Leyte Gulf and minesweeping operations of the gulf to make it safe for the passage of convoys.

MacArthur said the invaders comprised Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth U. S. Army units from the Central Pacific. Without further identification, front line dispatches or Associated Press correspondents specified these participants.

The First Cavalry division, the Seventh division; the 96th division.

The Japanese, expecting landings south at Mindanao were so completely surprised that beachheads in the Tacloban area "were secured with small casualties," stated today's special communique issued from the field of operations.

MacArthur Appeals to Natives to Arise and Strike at Enemy

(By The Associated Press)

"I have returned," General Douglas MacArthur told the Filipino people in a broadcast today calling upon them to "rise and strike" the Japanese.

Here is the text of his broadcast over the "Voice of Freedom" radio as reported by the Office of War Information:

"People of the Philippines: I have returned. By the grace of Almighty God our forces stand again on Philippine soil—soil consecrated in the blood of our two peoples. We have come, dedicated and committed, to the task of destroying every vestige of enemy control over your daily lives, and of restoring, upon a foundation of indestructible strength, the liberties of your people.

"At my side is your president, Sergio Osmena, worthy successor of that great patriot, Manuel Quezon, with members of his cabinet. The seat of your government is now therefore firmly reestablished on Philippine soil.

Asks Supreme Effort

"The hour of your redemption is here. Your patriots have demonstrated an unswerving and resolute devotion to the principles of freedom that challenges the best that is written on the pages of human history. I now call upon your supreme effort that the enemy may know from the temper of an aroused and outraged people within that he has a force there to contend with no less violent than

For Duration

New York, Oct. 20—An American network pool broadcast recorded by NBC direct from Leyte island at 11 a. m. today (CWT) said that "our troops are having a tough time and are being subjected to heavy mortar and artillery fire".

"But then no one expected this to be an easy operation", the broadcaster added.

The reporter described the first landing and said that the first party had driven 500 yards inland before the Japanese fired a single shot.

He added that American battleships and cruisers were standing off shore, lending whatever assistance was necessary and that divebombers "are still plastering the hills near all the beaches".

The broadcaster told of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's landing. He said the general came ashore with one of the landing parties "wading in knee deep water". He quoted the general as saying "I will stay for the duration now".

Polo Hemp Mill to be Sold After War

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A list of industrial plants and sites to be disposed of by the Defense Plant Corporation after they have been declared surplus has been announced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Ruse by Radio Correspondents and Signal Corps Kept Japanese in Dark

New York, Oct 20 (AP)—A ruse carried out by radio correspondents with the United States Signal Corps attached to Gen MacArthur's headquarters was a factor in keeping the Japanese in the dark about the invasion of the Philippines Arthur Feldman Blue network correspondent, reported today.

Before the correspondents embarked from New Guinea with the invasion forces, said Feldman, they spent hours making recordings of undated, featurized newscasts to be played during their absence at their regular broadcast periods.

These broadcasts were transmitted to American networks during the period or more than a week when the correspondents actually were aboard ships in the big Philippine-bound convoy.

"This ruse prevented Jap monitors in western Dutch New Guinea who listen regularly to the New Guinea Signal Corps transmitter which beams broadcasts to the networks in America, from learning of the correspondents, absence Feldman said. "If this had not been done it would have been an obvious tip off to the enemy".

The Place of Christian Religion In the Nation's Schools and Homes

Text: Matthew 7:7-12; Luke 6:39-45

BY WILLIM E. GILROY, D. D.

In British plans for postwar education, great stress is being laid upon religion and the provision by law for religious instruction in the schools under public control. Such provision would not be possible here in America, where the separation of church and state is a well-established and, as most of us believe, a wise principle. But in our own way we must face what legislators as well as churchmen have faced in Great Britain, viz, the obvious failure of education alone,, or of education as we have had it, to save the world from disaster by building into individuals and society the moral restraints and values that are the necessary foundations of good citizenship, the proper evaluation of human life, and the recognition of the rights of others.

In the world in general we have had a long course of so-called "secular" education. Colleges that originally were of religious foundation, and that arose through the vision of Christian men and women, have eagerly understressed the secular. There has been a widely held explicit or implicit assumption that if we acquired enough knowledge, and particularly scientific knowledge, the future welfare and progress of mankind would follow.

From all of that we have had a rude and terrible awakening. Germany, which was the Mecca of earnest students seeking the ultimate things in philosophy and science, has led the world in ruthlessness, and in the prostitution of science and education to the most destructive purposes. And the destruction has involved not only material structures and peoples; at its heart has been the destruction of all moral codes and restraining moral sentiments.

William Shirer, well-known correspondent recently related how, in his contacts with the people of Germany during the early period of the war, he found many questioning greatly their Fuehrer's course. But as country after country was successfully invaded, enthusiasm for the war became almost universal. If one questioned the rightfulness of invading and desolating peaceful countries and peoples, he was met with a stony stare of incomprehension, as if moral factors did not exist.

The religios community, though less culpable than the schools, has not been free from blame. It is rather appalling to consider the number of peaople educated in schools under religious control, and with religious instruction, who have been no better than the worst of those whose education has been wholly secular.

Why is that? Is it not because so much so-called religious instruction has been formal in its nature, having more to do with theory and doctrine, than with moral fact and sound moral teaching?

Note then, in the passages that constitute our lesson, the insistence upon a right attitude toward others, and right conduct in relation to them, as the fundamental thing in education. The man who sees the mote in his brother's eye, while a beam is in his own eye, is not only religiously a weakling—he is not educated. The father who would give his son a stone instead of bread, or a serpent instead of a fish is not only bad religiously—he is not educated. Yet many American fathers and mothers are doing just that—setting an example to their children that is morally destructive.

In the home, in the school, in the church, and in the church school, we need a revival of moral emphasis in education and an insitsence upon the fact that no man, no matter what his lore of knowledge, is really educated unless he has learned to live in right relations with his fellowmen.

General MacArthur Making Good on His Promise to Islands

His Words of March 17, 1942 Are Recalled as Day of Invasion

By RUSSELL BRINES

MacArthur is keeping a promise.

A gaunt line of resolute men was stretched across the jungles of Bataan, holding a conqueror at bay . . .

White-faced men and women crouched in the musty tunnels of Corregidor, while day and night earth rumbled and trembled from bombs and artillery . . .

Triumphant Japanese were looting Manila, with a heavy hand for the Filipinos and a superior grin for interned Occidental men, women and children . .

Two thousand miles away, Gen. Douglas MacArthur gravely spoke to other frightened but still free civilians.

"The president of the United States," he said, 'has ordered me to break through the Japanese lines and proceed from Corregidor to Australia for the purpose, as I understand it, of organizing an American offensive against Japan. The primary purpose of this is the relief of the Philippines.

"I came through and I shall return."

March 17, 1942

This was March 17 1942. The general and his family had completed a perilous flight from the Philippines, slipping through the Nipponese naval blockade in a P-T boat.

Japanese hodres were pouring like lava across the mountains and valleys of New Guinea; reaching out toward northern Australia, which their planes and ships already had struck.

The general did not say, "first, I shall save Australia,' as his sense of diplomacy might have prompted. He did not qualify the remoteness of his pledge. He spoke from an intense preoccupation which has dominated most of his utterances since then.

Douglas MacArthur wanted to return to the Philippines as a strategist; as a friend, and to redeem a debt of honor.

Gave World Heart

So intense was his faith that Australia, and gradually the rest of the democratic world ,took heart. His erect, square-jawed figure became a symbol of the distant power that some day would dispel the mists then hanging over Asia.

This commander of a doomed army began to form a new striking force with the material at hand—one combat division and a handful of bombers and fighters. Men with courage and daring under him curled back the Japanese menace of the Papuan jungles and the Solomon islands.

Australians honored MacArthur many times as the savior of their commonwealth. On one such occasion this year, the general deliberately reiterated his pledge to return to the Philippines.

"On such occasion as this," he added, "my thoughts go back to those men who went on their last crusade in the jungle thicknesses to the north where they made the fight that saved this continent."

He was speaking of Bataan, as he did often. He noted the first anniversary of the peninsula's fall, April 4, 1943, with a prepared statement that outlined some of the reasons for his impatience to return:

Learned From Father

"Our flag lies crumpled . . .

The wrecks of what were once our men and women groan and sweat in prison toil; our faithful Filipino wards, 16,000,000 souls, gasp in the slavery of a conquering soldiery . . ."

"I was the leader of that lost cause," he added, "and, from the bottom of a seared and stricken heart I pray that a merciful God may not delay too long their redemption, that the day of salvation be not so far removed that they perish, that it be not again too late."

The general acquired sympathy and confidence in the Filipinos from his father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, first American military governor of the Philippines. He had participated against Filipino patriots during the insurrection.

Began as Lieutenant

Douglas MacArthur began his military career as a lieutenant of engineers in the archipelago in 1903. He later served as district commander in Manila and as commander of the department of the Philippines.

In 1903 he began to groom a Commonwealth army for the islands' then forthcoming independance. As Field Marshal he directed intensive training of Filipino conscripts.

The general also consistently viewed the Philippines as a great strategic stepping stone, both as a springboard for a jump to China and as the base of sea and aerial power which could sever Japanese communication lines to the war material regions of the south.

Gen. MacArthur's impatience to return to the islands was reflected in his efforts to shave down the New Guinea timetable. He utilized air power to the fullest. He developed leap-frog landings which trapped whole Japanese armies and permitted advances without the slow liquidation of more than 100,000 Japanese still living within the areas he controls.

Rendezvous With Ghosts

Finally, after 17 months of back-breaking effort, he inserted in his communique of July 23, 1944 the first mention of the Philippines since the capitulation of Corregidor, May 6, 1942. He revealed then that long-range planes from newly-acquired bases were maintaining a consistent patrol over southern Philippine waters.

Doubtless that moment brought back memories which must have plagued him often during the past two years . . the towering flames which destroyed the Cavite naval base, symbol of American Far Eastern naval power the night he slipped from Manila . . the concentrated hell of Corregidor and Bataan when his disease-weakened men prayed for help that never came . . the gaunt, night-cloaked shadows of the islands, bunched like compliant shoulders, as his tiny escape boat weaved toward Australia.

Gen. MacArthur has a rendezvous with ghosts in the Philppines.

Mrs. Merrick Is Speaker at WSCS Meeting Thursday

There was a good attendance at the October meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon considering that a district meeting of the same organizaion took several members to Plainfield for the day. Mrs. F. G. Eno conducted the usual business meeting and Mrs. Grace Slaughter was in charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. Helen Moeller, secretary of status of women, called attention to the importance of the many phases of women's work in these strenuous times as she introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Edwin Merrick.

In her talk, Mrs. Merrick chose to speak on "The Status of the Illinois Methodist Woman." She depicted a week's activities in the life of an imaginary person, typical of any women of today, who takes her many rights and priveleges for granted. Mrs. Merrick emphasized that the freedom to work, worship, vote and chose her pleasures, is the heritage from countless generations of ancestors who have gradually, with struggle, hardships, persecution, great perserverance and faith in a broader future, attained her present status. The highest appreciation today's women can show is to use wisely her many legal and moral rights in the interest of her home, her church, community and country.

Brief sketches were given of the lives of five inspitational women, Suzanna Wesely, mother of John and Charles Wesley, founders of the Methodist church; Frances Willard, for so many years an ardent worker and national president of the W. C. T. U.; blind, Fannie Crosby, writer of a great many hymns; Jane Addams, settlement worker and founder of Hull House in Chicago and lastly, Madame Chiang Kai Shek, the heart of many worthy movements in China, and often called "the first lady of the world." Mrs. Myrtle George and Mrs. Bert Jacobson sang Face to Face, one of the favorite hyms written by Frannie Crosby.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Clara Shawger and refreshments were served by Circle Three.

October Brides Hold Social Spotlight

Attractive Jane Allin of Lakeland, Fla., became the bride of Capt. Russell Bush of Dixon in a ceremony that took place in Lakeland on Oct. 4. Captain Bush and his bride are honeymooning in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Milton Miller, the former Helen Baker, pictured in her wedding gown following her marriage at the Grace Evangelical church on Oct. 7. She and Mr. Miller are now at home in Franklin Grove.

Capt. Russell Lloyd Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bush of 805 Palmyara avenue claimed as his bride, Miss Jane Orr Allin of Lakeland, Fla., in a wedding ceremony that took place at the Lakeland Heights Methodist church on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14. The service was performed by the Rev. Paul Redfearn at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of scores of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Millard F. Miller, soprano, and Mrs. Mauriece Felton, organist, presented a musical program including "How Do I Love Thee?" (poem by Elizabeth Barrett Browning and music by Edward Lippe) and "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte). Organ selections were "Salut d'Armour" (Elgar), "Romance" (Rubenstein), "Serenade' (Widor), and during the ceremony "I Love You Truly" (Bond). The traditional wedding marches were used.

The vows were taken beneath an archway entwined with greenery and dotted with white flowers. Palms formed the background and floor baskets of white gladioli were interspersed with four seven-branch candelabra holding cathedral candles.

Mr. Allin gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of shimmering ivory satin with a long train and waist-length veil, which was held in place with clusters of orange blossoms Her dress was fashioned with a sweetheart yoke of net embroidered with seed pearls, fitted midriff, long train, and long sleeves which ended in points at the wrist. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and tuberoses.

Miss Isaetta Talley was maid of honor and Miss Susanne Pierce the bridesmaid. Their dresses were in yellow, the bodices of faille and the bouffant skirts of net. They both carried bouquets of lavender pompons tied with yellow ribbons. J. Lander Allin, Jr., was the best man, and ushers were Dick Barnes, David Myrick, Stephen Grimes and Wilbur Allin.

Mrs. Allin, mother of the bride, wore a dress fashioned of aqua and black trimmed with gold braid and crystal beads, and Mrs. Bush, the bridegroom's mother, wore black crepe with matching accessories. Their corsages were of orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr and Mrs. Allin entertained at a reception at their home. The green and white color scheme of the church decorations was repeated at the home. The dining room table, centered with a wedding cake flanked with silver candelabra holding white tapers, was laid with an Italian cutwork cloth with medallions and edging

Secretary Says He's Innocent of Charges

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, pleaded innocent today to charges that he failed unlawfully to turn over to a house investigating committee a requested list of financial backers of the organization.

In a press release handed to newsmen immediately after his arraignment before District Court Justice James M. Proctor, Rumely said his group "has nothing to hide" and had provided the house campaign expenditures committee with a complete record of receipts except for individual names and addresses.

He said that the decision to withhold that information had been voted by the organization's trustees "to set a precedent that will safeguard the rights of citizens and of all other organizations in the future against similar violations by federal officials and misled, legislative committees." The Committee for Constitutional Government contends its functions are educational, not political.

The house committee cited Rumely for contempt, an action which resulted in his indictment by a Federal Grand jury."

Rape Slayer Dies in Missouri Gas Chamber

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 20.—(AP)—James Thomas, 20-year-old Negro, died in Missouri's lethal gas chamber at 12:10 a. m. today for raping a 22-year-old white woman in a St. Louis suburb a year ago last January.

Thomas was the sixteenth victim—and the tenth Negro—to die in the state prison gas chamber since gas displaced hanging in 1938 as Missouri's method of exacting the death penalty.

Thomas was converted to the Catholic faith a few hours before his execution and died clasping a rosary.

A Thought for Today

Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the dom of heaven.—Matthew 5:19.

The body of all true religion consists, to be sure, in obedience to the will of the Sovereign of the world, in a confidence in his declarations, and in imitation of his perfections.—Burke.

Some More Promises?

It is expected that in an effort to offset Mr. Dewey's campaign. Candidate Roosevelt will come forth with a plan for rehabilitation, reconstruction, full employment, demobilization of veterans, benefits for veterans and. in fact to cure various evils which he has got to promise to cure lest he lose the election.

When listening to the Roosevelt promises, people will do well to examine his record for keeping promises. When reading of his plans, voters will be wise to remember how many of his plans have been carried through as he SAID they would be.

It will be well to search for hidden meanings. for no other American president has had such ability to seem to be saying one thing while actually meaning something else.

Scoreboard

The Nazis spent a lot of ingenuity, money and effort in building the Siegfried Line. They spent a lot of breath thundering to the world about its "impregnability." But they didn't awe the Yanks worth a darn.

This was evident in a picture the other day which showed a group of G. I.'s listening to a World Series broadcast on a jeep radio, and casually using a wall of the vaunted Siegfried Line for a scoreboard.

We rather imagine that this wonderfully casual calling of the Nazi bluff can be counted among the American soldier's chief assets. He respects the tangibility of bombs and bullets, but he simply refuses to be impressed by bloated propaganda. He will probably shoot craps on the sidewalk in front of the Reichschancellery in Berlin.

Incredible

A handsome young Navy officer running for congress in Maryland has offered, with a gallant gesture and a split infinitive, "to personally kiss every lady" in his district. It may be that there will shortly be added to the caucus literature of this election year charges aimed at the Irresistible as well as the Indispensable Man.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.

Washington.—The surges we made in Holland, at Aachen and at Metz were but limited attacks.

They did not approach the scale of assault of which we are capable in manpower and munitions available to that front.

A big fall push is, therefore, certain to develop within the next few weeks. It will decide the duration of the war in Europe.

What has prevented us from getting it started sooner was the suicidal nazi retention of the channel ports and the complete destruction they wrought before surrendering. This effectively tied up our troops by hindering reinforcements and supplies.

The whole city of Brest was wrecked. Le Havre was damaged beyond early use. Even at Bordeaux we have been able to use only the neck of the peninsula.

A major campaign is still raging around Antwerp, and while enthusiastic dispatches have told frequently of late that we have cleared the Schelde estuary approaching that port and commanding it, we have just made good progress on the south side of the river and failed to do much on the north side.

At Metz, Aachen and in Holland, the nazis have shown fairly good artillery, and some tanks. They must have saved these from the earlier war years when their production was full.

Their new recruits fighting at these points were not as bad as could have been expected. The number of older men in evidence has been offset by the fanaticism of the boys.

With this artillery, the tanks and the young zealots, they have formed a cohesive line from Switzerland to the Baltic, although the final power of this line has not yet been tested by full attack.

Their morale, however, is surprising, especially in the face of two great defects. They are pinched for oil and they have a great air inferiority.

Their game is to hold on through the winter in hope of a miracle by spring. In Poland and Italy, it is the same story.

We pierced their vaunted Gothic Line both in the center and on the Adriatic. Now they hold the last line of hills in front of the Po valley, but they hold these natural obstacles well.

The Russians have had great success on both flanks. They have just about mopped up the Baltic states and severed connections with Finland (a great many Germans escaped.)

In the south they will soon get Budapest and Belgrade will find. Greece is ours (British) and the only escape for the Germans left on Crete is by air.

But in the center, on the East Prussia - Vistula river - Warsaw line through Poland there has been a lull of weeks if not months—and this is the only suitable military route to Berlin. The Russians are taking the Baltics and Balkans before trying for Berlin.

The nazis anticipate that winter weather will soon grant them the same respite in the west. They are mistaken. It is true, mud may impede our progress (the ground does not freeze in Germany or offer good winter fighting conditions for mechanical equipment) but our attack has been delayed. We have been awaiting the arrival of power.

The published estimates that we have 70 divisions on the front against 40 nazis are unwise because no one knows how much we have. Yet, everyone knows it is sufficient to start a full grand scale general assault within a short time and keep pushing the attack through the winter. That is quite clearly our strategy.

To say the war will not end until spring is to suppose this attack will not be successful. I would not bet on that yet if I were you.

Fair Enough

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright 1944 by King Features Syndicate)

New York—Several campaign propagandists of the Roosevelt legal counsel for the interpretation side, including one continental refugee who speaks on the air with a Weber and Fields accent of "Our America" and goes under a false name have done me the dubious honor of suggesting that I have had a hand in the composition of some of Governor Dewey's speeches.

The honor is dubious, I say, because Dewey's style is too restrained for my taste and, in a contest with the Messrs. Sherwood, Michelson, Rosenman and David K. Niles, as he calls himself, I should like to be represented by my own work in which case, I am confident I could bat the ears off the spooks who haunt the White House. Not that Dewey isn't doing well enough on his own, you understand but the difference is that he cuts them up whereas my method would be to belt them down.

As an example of the contrast between Dewey's treatment of a prominent issue and the way I should handle the same question, I give you here as follows:

In his speech on taxation, Dewey touched briefly on the confusion which is written into law and quoted from a section concerning contributions to employes' pension plans which says. "They shall not be deductible under subsection (A) but shall be deductible, if deductible under sub-section (A) without regard to this sub-section but only to the following extent—."

Now that was a nice jab but just when he had them blinking he stepped away to look at the blood when the thing to have done was to pitch the Fourth of July punch and knock them up into the two-bit seats.

My way would have been to clout them one gosh-awful smack and for this purpose I would have used some remarks from one of the most cynical confessions of the brutal rapacity of the professional new deal bureaucrat to be found in all the sordid record of this parasitic horde. This was a speech by Miss Marguerite Rawalt, the president of the Federal Bar Association, a Bund of new deal government lawyers, including many federal judges and members of the Lawyers' Guild, whose first president, Judge Ferdinand Pecora, of the New York Supreme court, resigned because as he said it had become a communist Trojan Horse.

Miss Rawalt, who is a special attorney in the appeals division of the chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, declared herself in a practical trade-talk to the Texas Bar association which was a plain exhortation to her fellow lawyers to take full advantage of the unfortunate citizen's uncertainty and his dependence on legal counsel for the interpretation of the law in countless, perilous daily relations with his government.

"Are the lawyers of this country, men and women, going to take full advantage of their opportunities in administrative law?" Miss Rawalt demanded. "It is the most rapidly expanding area of law practice today. There are some 217 special courts, bureaus and commissions which today decide upon and administer various federal laws directly affecting citizens and business firms. Administrative law, through the Federal Communications Commission, regulates the programs you hear on your radio and determines the use of the telegraph and telephone. Administrative law, through the OPA and other departments, regulates what food you may buy and what you may pay for it. Concurrent with the phenomenal growth in this field of law, there has been a sudden decrease in the number of lawyers."

Thus exulting over the citizen's helplessness in the maze of deliberately tricky and ambiguous laws and his need of lawyers to keep him out of court or out of jail, the new deal lady counsellor adjured her colleagues "to stake their claim in this promising professional gold mine," adding that, as guardians of the home front for lawyers off at war, they had a duty to establish the legal profession in the new field so that, when they came home, the warrior barristers could share the profit from the misery of their own fighting comrades who happen not to be learned in the law. Cheerily, Miss Rawalt advised the Texas Bar that one single provision of the original income tax law had been expanded from 500 words to 2,300 "not to mention lengthy regulations, interpreting and implementing the code," and she reminded them that Justice Felix Frankfurter, who never has been accused of simplicity, himself, had laid down the heartening dictum that the citizen has only himself to blame if he innocently assumes that the law, in any given case, means what it plainly says.

That, said Miss Rawalt, herself a new deal lawyer in the most complicated field of law affecting the bewildered and bedeviled citizens, is only a sample of the ore underlying this "promising professional gold mine," for she promised that future tax laws would be even longer and more confusing.

Had I been Dewey's spook I should have quoted thus and more so from the official and professional attitude of the president of the Federal Bar Association toward that harried, worried and bewildered slob, George Spelvin, American, so often and so patronizingly referred as the little people and the common man. And if so much as a twitch then remained in the wraiths of the haunted house on Pennsylvania avenue, I should finish them off with a reminder that, according to Frankfurter's own dictum, none of his own opinions or statements, including the one that words don't mean what they say, has any meaning, and leave the muggs for dead.

I have never been invited to tangle with Roosevelt's spooks but I can think of no contest that I would like better.

of Venetian lace.

Captain and Mrs. Bush left durng the evening, returning to Lakeland the next day before leaving for New Orleans, Chicago and a resort in Wisconsin. At the end of Captain Bush's leave they will go to Nashville, where he will be stationed.

The bride attended , Arcadia and Lakeland high schools, at the latter being a member of Iota Delta Sigma sorority, and received her degree in education at Florida State College for Women. While a student at Florida State, she was president of the Mortar board, national honorary society, recognizing leadership, scholarship and service; representative for two years to the judiciary of the college government association, a member of Esteren, "F" club, and sophomore council. Her biography was included in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and her picture was featured in 1944 college yearbook.

She also belonged to Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic honorary society for freshmen women; Kappa Delti Pi, national educational honorary society; and Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary society, recognizing all fields. She was graduated in May from FSCW and has since held the position of head teacher at the FSCW nursery school in Tallahassee, Fla. She is a member of Kappa Delta, national social sorority.

Captain Bush, a graduate of Dixon high school, attended Northern Illinois Teachers' college before entering the service. He received part of his training at Lodwick School of Aeronautics in Florida. A Flying Fortress pilot, he was leader of his squadron while serving nine months in England. He participated in many raids over Berlin, Paris, and other nazi-held territory, and has been awarded the presidential citation with one oak leaf cluster, the distinguished flying cross, and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Attending the wedding from here were the bridegroom's parents, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Donald Bush. A buffet supper was given by the maid of honor and bridesmaid, Miss Talley and Miss Pierce, on the eve of the wedding, following the rehearsal. Mr. and Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Donald Bush were in attendance.

GERMANY WILL TRY IT AGAIN

By Sigrid Schultz

Copyright, 1944, by Sigrid Schultz
Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

As an American newspaper correspondent in Berlin from 1919 to 1941, Sigrid Schultz saw at first hand the events that led from World War I to World War II. And she saw the behind-the-scenes preparation for the coming "war-in-peace" that she warns may culminate in World War III. This is the story of Germany's plans to win the peace, plans that even now are being put into effect.

THE war had barely started when we began hearing from anti-Nazis about the crimes committed by the black-uniformed Schutz Staffel in Poland, in the wake of the regular army. Then we heard of a few officers insisting on the court-martial of Black Guards caught massacring Polish and Jewish men, women, and children. One court decreed the death sentence for these Black Guards, but Heinrich Himmler interceded with Hitler in their behalf before any of them was executed. The few officers who expressed their indignation were removed to minor posts and deprived of any hope of advancement. As far as the Germans were concerned, the matter was settled.

One did not have to rely on non-Nazis to learn of German atrocities in invaded countries. All during the campaigns in the East, all one had to do was to go to one of the waiting rooms of the railroad stations in eastern Berlin and listen to the Black Guards arriving from or leaving for the front. They seemed to enjoy describing how they had locked Poles and Jews into cellars and then thrown hand grenades through windows left open for the purpose.

A few people discussed the necessity of making some kind of protest. But if the attempt of the army officers had met only with punishment, what could anyone else do?

The Nazis found a simple way of handling foreign reaction. They told their agents abroad to brand any report of crimes an "untrue atrocity story, reminiscent of the propaganda campaigns of World War I." They knew that anything labeled "propaganda" is disbelieved in America. The method worked perfectly—at least until Pearl Harbor. Many people in the United States read the reports of crimes perpetrated by the Nazi troops as if they were detective stories, horror stuff, that might raise some gooseflesh, yet need not be taken seriously.

But the German people learned with surprising speed the truth about the German bestialities in Poland, as it had known about the murder of Czechs after the rape of Czechoslovakia. And why? They were told by their government—to compel them to share the guilt of what was done. On the whole the people reacted with unforgivable indifference.

AFTER the first reports of the mass murders committed by the Nazis in Poland, I happened to meet the leader of the women in Poland, Dr. Erich Hilgenfeldt, at an official reception in Berlin. He talked a lot about the constructive welfare work done by the Germans. I used that as a starter for some discreet questioning.

He was not in the least reticent. Instead he seemed eager to talk. He called over two other Schutz Staffel officers to satisfy my curiosity. After some conversation, the officer with the most silver braid on his black uniform said petulantly, "I don't see why you Anglo-Saxons get so excited about what happens to a few Poles. Your reaction shows you and your countrymen do not have the scientific approach to the problem."

One of the men in the group was Dr. Roland Freisler, secretary of state in the Ministry of Justice. One always had to be careful in talking with men of his type, but science is a safe subject for starting a Nazi off to say more than he means to. The three men gave me a revealing lecture when I accepted the bait and asked, "And what is the scientific approach?"

"Do you people realize what is happening to the white race?" This was the near-sighted Nazi with thick-lensed glasses. I admitted that I did not know the German "scientific" version.

"FOR every 22 persons of pure white blood born every minute, there are 85 Slav births. If that should go on, by 1960 the Slav populations, including the Poles, would have double the numbers of the white populations." Hilgenfeldt looked at me, obviously expecting me to be shattered by this revelation. Years of reporting had taught me that one can do anything with statistics. I merely said, "Do you mean to say that the Slavs do not belong to the white race?"

"Certainly not. Or at least on a very inferior level." Hilgenfeldt, the racial "scientist" of the Schutz Staffel, almost snarled as he moved away. Freisler took his leaving as a signal that he could speak freely.

"We indulge in no false sentimentality," he said. "We shall not allow any of our neighbors to have a higher birth rate than ours, and we shall take measures to prevent it. The Slavs outnumber us." It seemed that the Slavs and the Jews would be permitted to survive if they worked for Germany. "But only if they work for us," he repeated. "And we'll see that they work as we want them to. If they don't they can starve."

Then Freisler touched on the crux of the matter. "We'll see that none of their men will ever get enough education to become leaders." And added, "When 1960 comes, we'll see that the birth rate is in our favor, not that of any Slavs."

Rep. Fulmer's Death Ebbs Democrat Ranks

Washington, Oct. 20—(AP)—The Democratic party's representaoin in the house today stod at the lowest point in 12 years as a result of the death of Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer of the agriculture committee.

But Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass), house minority leader, said in answer to a question at Boston that the G. O. P. will wait until after the Nov. 7 voting to contest control of the house with the Democrats.

Fulmer, 69-year-old dean of the South Caralina house delegation, died suddenly late yesterday of a heart attack, whittling the number of house Democrats to 214 compared with 212 Republicans, four minor party members and five vacancies.

Under the traditional seniority rule Rep. John W. Flannigan (D-Va) will move up to the chairmanship of the powerful agriculture committee.

Philippine Triumph Will Snip Japanese Asia Supply Market

Re - Occupation Would Serve as Springboard For Jump to China

By RUSSELL BRINES

(AP correspondent formerly in the Orient who was captured by the Japanese in Manila)

The Philippines form the eastern shield of Japan's vital new empire.

This string of more than 7,000 islands sprawls for 1,150 miles on the edge of the empire's last vein of shipping.

Severance of that vein, possible from the archipelago, will weaken the imperial war machine further for the decisive battles which may be fought on the Asiatic continent.

American re-occupation of the Philippines also provides an Allied springboard for a double jump onward—northward to the China coast, southwestward into the Netherlands East Indies.

War industries in Japan and Manchuria are sustained by oil, rubber, tin, bauxite and other essentials from the East Indies and Malaya. These resources do not exist in war-sufficient qualitities elsewhere in the empire.

They can be shipped in quantity only across sea lanes stretching more than 2,500 miles through the China Sea and past east China to the homeland.

Can Sweep Sea Route

Air and sea power based in the Philippines can sweep this sea route. From Davao, Mindanao—the archipelago's main southern island—the air line distance to French Indo-China is approximately 1,000 miles across the southern China Sea. Northern Luzon is about 600 miles from the China coast.

Constant patrol will minimize the flow of war materials to Japan. The sea expanses are wide, and some ships probably will penetrate the blockade. But their cargoes will be small.

The imperial war machine then will be forced back on stockpiles accumulated feverishly during the past three years. These probably are sizable. But without replenishment, they will place a time limit on Japan's ability to wage large-scale war.

In Japanese hands the Philippines and Formosa—the northern geographical tail—barrel the way to China. Fleet and aerial units based there presented too great a menace to American communication lines to be by-passed. Final occupation or neutralization of the main islands in this chain will permit the Allies to prepare their drive to the continent.

That will split the Japanese empire in half, isolating the newly-acquired southwestern domains. In effect, sizable Nipponese garrisons from Indo-China to the Indies will be by-passed on a grand scale, while the Allies punch ahead for a showdown fight with the continental army.

Nips Fortify China Coast Against Landing

Chungking, Oct. 20—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Chang Tung-Chuen, Chinese army spokesman, said today that Japanese preparing for a feared American landing in China had fortified the coastal area between Shanghai and Hongchow bay and were building submarine bases at Wengchow, Foochow and Amoy.

Birthday Dinner

A large group of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Larson Sunday afternoon, near Shabbona, in honor of Mrs. J. A. Larson, who was celebrating her birthday. A delicious chicken dinner was served by the hostess at 1:00 o'clock, and a beautifully decorated birthday cake made by Mrs. Kenneth Rosette was the lovely centerpiece on the food laden table. Everyone did full justice to the dinner and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in visiting. Everyone enjoyed getting together again after not being together for many months, and so many happy incidents were recalled and discussed by the group. During the afternoon the guest of honor was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts presented to her by her many friends. As the afternoon drew to a close and it came time for the guest to leave everyone reported a delightful day and one they will long remember. Everyone extended their best wishes to Mrs. Larson and all expressed their sincere hope that she may be able to enjoy many more such happy events. She thanked her friends for so many lovely gifts, and she is sure this was her happiest birthday ever.

Those present for the delightful occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Ward Goble and Margaret Rhoads of DeKalb, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bastian and family and Miss Fern Bastian of Hinkley, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Erlenback and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Larson and family of Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rosette and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goble, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Larson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goble of Earlville, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. SEC Charges Aurora Firm With Fraud

Chicago, Oct. 20—(AP)—Federal Judge William J. Campbell issued a restraining order against Charles E. Greene & Company of Aurora yesterday, and set Oct. 27 for a hearing on an injunction suit brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission against the company.

The company, owned by Charles E. Greene and Jeanette Theresa Greene, was charged with having induced purchase and sale of securities by manipulation, deception and other fraudulent devices."

The suit asked the court to restrain the defendants from using the mails in transacting in securities and from transferring any money or selling securities now in their possession.

The complain charged that the company's liabilities exceeded its assets and that its purchase and sale prices no securities had "no reasonable relationship" to prevailing market price."

Walter S. Moe, SEC accountant, filed an affidavit charging the company with profits ranging up to 100 per cent of its transactions with customers.

Very Few People Have Perfect Eyesight

The normal eye is one of the rarest things in the world because almost all eyes have some kind of defect. The normal eye has the proper shape to receive clear images of objects without any strain or over-exertion of the delicate muscles in the interior of the eye.

The far-sighted eye is shorter than the normal eye. It does not focus the images of objects at a sharp point and a blurred image is formed. In order for the far-sighted eye to see clearly, the muscles of the eye must work more than usual—AND THIS CAUSES EYESTRAIN.

The near-sighted eye is too long and the light focuses before it reaches the back of the eye. This condition also requires extra work on the part of eye muscles and causes eye strain. The extra work that the muscles are required to do to obtain clear images, causes small eye defects to become more aggravated and, in many cases, serious trouble is the result. Properly prescribed corrective lenses are needed to enable the eye to function efficiently.

The Story of Coffee that's 5 Ways Better!
Chapter 1
PICK O' CROP COFFEE
Not once upon a time, but all the time, A&P buyers in leading coffee producing countries are selecting pick of crop coffees for you. Such fine coffee assures you of superb quality.
Chapter 2 ROASTED
THE "FLAVOR SAVER" WAY
Adventure turns these pampered greenhorns into seasoned coffee beans cram-packed with flavor. A&P's "Flavor-Saver" process roasts the beans not too much or too little but exactly right.
Chapter 3
FLAVOR LOCKED IN THE BEAN
It's no fairy tale that Nature locks flavor in the bean. That's why not a single pound of A&P Coffee is ground in advance. When you buy, it's still in the flavor-packed bean!
Chapter 4
PERFECT GRINDING
You'll live happily ever after with your coffeepot when coffee is ground to "fit" it. A&P Coffee is ground exactly right for each individual coffee maker . . . and that means fuller flavor every time.
Chapter 5
RICHER FLAVOR ALWAYS
The happy ending to this story is finer flavor . . . richer flavor in every cup. Change now to A&P Coffee, America's best liked coffee. Remember, there's a blend to suit your taste!
FOR PERFECT VACUUM POT COFFEE
Have fresh bean coffee ground A&P VACUUM POT grind. For each cup of water measured into lower section, measure two level tablespoonfuls of coffee into upper section. Put top section in place, heat until most of water rises to top section. Turn off heat—stir once, let coffee filter to bottom—serve immediately.

London Newspapers Feature Philippines

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—News about the Philippines received smash play today in London's evening newspapers, which usually fill their front pages with reports from the European battlefronts.

The Evening News said editorially:

"The Philippines will not be the end. Japan tried to win the game with loaded dice at Pearl Harbor. She will have to pay the price of a treachery that failed."

The Star's editorial said: "The entire situation in the Pacific is transformed. The enemy's calculated efforts must now be directed to holding MacArthur's men at bay, for the loss of the Philppines will spell doom to Japan."

Members of commons cheered when Ellis Smith, a laborite, declared the British people were prepared to accept their responsibility in the far east.

American GI's stopped correspondents and telephoned newspaper offices to inquire about the latest from the Philippines.

British morning newspapers gave considerable prominence to earlier Japanese reports of the invasion.

Train Allied Troops in Street Warfare

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Allied troops are going to be trained in street fighting apparently in preparation for battling Hitler's new guerilla army.

The training program will be carried out in the Battersea district of southwest London—a congested district of workers' houses and factories.

The whole area has been badly blitzed and looks like a German city or town might look after an allied shelling and bombing.

The United States spends approximately $1,500,000,000 annually to care for 300,000 criminals.

Cows which freshen in November are higher producers than those freshening in June.

If Mt. Everest were placed in Mindanao Deep off the Philippines, more than 6,000 feet of water would roll across its peak.

Aachen Falls

man counterattacks to the northeast in recent days.

The doughboys held on to their positions at Crucifix Hill, just northeast of the city, gaainst all these desperate charges and went on with their methodical extermination of the garrison, which originally was estimated at 1,500 men.

That garrison actually was larger, however, was indicated by dispatches from Aachen today which said from 500 to 1,000 Germans remained in isolated traps around the edges while nearly 2,000 already had been captured.

Aachen Made Test City

During the siege the Germans had been able to feed a few hundred reinforcements into the garrison, but since Sunday they were forced to rely upon parachutes as their chief agency of supply.

Aachen had been made a test city by the American command, giving the Germans the choice of surrendering or permitting one of the famous towns of the reich to be knocked to pieces. The Germans rejected the ultimatum Wednesday, Oct. 11 and the Americans began their attack.

Aachen may have set the pattern for German resistance from city to city.

Only 10,000 or 15,000 cvilians were believed to have remained in the city at the beginning of the attack. At least 3,000 were evacuated by the Americans after the attack began.

Canadians Strike Anew

Canadian infantry and armor struck out in a new offensive through the mud and marshland north of Antwerp today to bolster the allied powerhouse salient being built up in Holland against Adolf Hitler's northern defenses.

At the same time French infantry fighting along the ridges of the Vosges at the southern end of the allied line outflanked the village of Ventran at the entrance to the 15-mile-long Bussang pass which opens out on the Rhine floor only seven miles from Mulhouse.

The Americans of the Seventh Army on the latter front also captured Bruyeres, 13 miles east of Epinal, in a further stab at two more passes leading through the Vosges to the Rhine flatlands around Colmar and Strasbourg.

The British Second Army, fighting to clear out the Germans west of the Maas (Meuse) along the Reich border fronting the Holland salient made slow progress, almost bogged down by mud, and stiff German resistance.

Attack Launched Early

The Canadian attack, sprung at 7:30 a. m., was launched from an area about eight miles north of Antwerp along the railroad and highway leading north to Rosendaal and Rotledam.

Rocket-firing Typhoons and fighter bombers supported the drive, designed to strengthen the Canadian column six miles to the west which has speared to the neck of Zuid Beveland and Walcheren, German-held islands blocking the Schelde entrances to Antwerp.

In the first few hours the Canadians rolled forward several miles.

Gales, giving impetus to floods pouring through bombarded breaches in the dikes, have knocked out a number of big German guns at Vlissingen (Flushing) on Walcheren, and rocket and bomb-carrying Typhoons scored direct hits on buildings concealing other guns at Ellewoutsdijk on Zuid Beveland yesterday.

Other Canadian contingents were finishing the task of liquidating a pocket of 1,000 Germans holding an area about six by 12 miles south of the Schelde, and had advanced to within less than a mile south of Breskens, Schelde river port where other enemy guns are located.

Make Progress in Aachen

Progress in Aachen was made in mopping up the area just north of the city, and in the Haaren area to the northeast, where Aachen was recently sealed off from Germany, a number of nazis were driven out of pillboxes into which they had infiltrated during the night.

The French took more than 250 prisoners in fighting along ridges on either side of Ventron with tank support in the valleys 20 miles north of Belfort and 11 miles southeast of Remiremont. Six German counterattacks were beaten back by the French yesterday just to the south in the area northeast of Le Thillot.

The Germans sent a score of planes over Third Army lines in the Metz-Nancy sector in large-scale reconnaissance last night in evident fear that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was brewing trouble for them.

Big Forest Bombed

Allied planes showered bombs on a woods east of Luneville where the enemy was reported concentrating tanks. Hard fighting continued in Marzieres Les Metz, on the Moselle river five miles north of Metz.

Berlin speculated that Gen Eisenhower might not wait for the opening of the Antwerp supply port to begin a heavy new drive on the Reich from his northern wing.

Some German radio commentators for days have been asserting the allied command could not begin an attempt to break through into the heart of Germany until clearing of the Schelde sector opened up Antwerp to funnel in supplies. But last night they began reversing their field. One even saw the possibility of another seaborne landing in the Rotterdam area of Holland north of the Schelde estuary.

Heirs named were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Bremer of Dixon, two sisters, Mrs. Marcella Dick of Freeport, Mrs. Mary Preston of Morrison and one brother, Ellsworth H. Bremer of Dixon. The inventory listed a personal estate of approximately $10,000.

Plan Bunny Show—

An official 4-H Achievement day and rabbit show program has been announced for Saturday and Sunday to be held in the Rodesch building on Galena avenue. A rabbit show is being sponsored by the Rock River Rabbit and Fur Breeder's association, which enterprise has been adopted by the members of the 4-H club of this city. All children who are interested in becoming members of the 4-H club of this city. All children who are interested in becoming members of the organization and any visitors are welcome to attend the rabbit show, which will be open afternoon and evening on Saturday and all day on Sunday.

Tire Thief Sentenced—

Paul Moreno, 17, of Sterling, pleaded guilty to an information charging him with the theft of an automobile tire when arraigned before Judge Grover W. Gehant in the Lee county court yesterday afternoon and was committed to the Illinois state work farm at Vandalia for a period of 90 days. Moreno with three other Mexicans was taken in custody Monday evening about 10 o'clock about a half mile north of Harmon after he had been caught in a corn field and held until Sheriff L. E. Bates arrived. The tire which was found in the corn field the following day had been removed from a car belonging to Al Behrendt of Harmon.

Engineers Confab Tomorrow—

Dixon chapter No. 12 and the National Association of Power Engineers are sponsoring a dinner meeting to be held at the Nachusa hotel Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Vernon G. Leach, chief combustion engineer for the Peabody Coal Co., will be the principal speaker of the evening and talks will also be given by Mayor William Slothower, Attorney H. C. Warner and Ben T. Shaw, president of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce. A delegation of Chicago engineers and their wives have made reservations for the meetings.

Fight for Prussia

said heavy smoke clouds enveloped the center of Belgrade, the hoary Yugoslav capital, where street fighting has been in progress most of the week.

Red Star, Russian army newspaper, said conditions were grave in Budapest. Many officials of various ministries have deserted their jobs and gone into hiding. The newspaper said scores of Hungarian rail workers had struck and were sabotaging German defense efforts. Russian troops were reported within 50 miles of the ancient capital.

Berlin said the new Russian offensive along 60 miles of the Narew river between Warsaw and East Prussia had resulted in enormous Red Army losses. Russian breakthrough attempts between Suwalki and Schirwindt on the eastern frontier of East Prussia were frustrated and the tank army in the Kaiser's deer forest was unable "to achieve a penetration," Berlin said.

Moscow reported further large scale successes in Czechoslovakia, Transylvania, Hungary and Yugoslavia, but did not immediately confirm the capture of Debrecen.

six hours in advance and sent no warning".

Other Developments

Other developments at a time when the campaign is bearing heavily on international matters:

James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio who ran for president in 1920 with Roosevelt as his running mate, told a radio audience from Dayton that "the powers that directed the conspiracy" to defeat the league of nations "control the Republican party still".

Democratic Governor Kerr of Oklahoma said in a broadcast from Wichita Falls, Tex., that "when Wendell Willkie died, the heart and conscience of the Republican party died with him".

But at Houston, Tex. Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) gave an anti-Roosevelt rally this summation of the new deal: "A phony, extravagant, wasteful and meddling bureaucracy administered by 3,000,000 non-elected officials who have promulgated 76,541 decrees, regulations, directives, permissions and prohibitions".

Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice presidential candidate renewed his attack on Dewey's foreign policy views today as his special campaign car headed for Butte, Mont., where he speaks over the radio tonight.

He departed from his prepared address at Seattle's Civic Auditorium last night to assert that he did not believe the Republican standard bearer "has the intestinal fortitude" to "read the isolationists out of his party".

"It's taken six long years for him to tell us he's not an isolationist, but he's still a satisfactory candidate to Willie Hearst and Bertie McCormick", Truman told the audience.

Farmers Favor World Peace Association

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Bureau of Agriculture Economics said today a survey of representative farmers in 28 states discloses that three out of four think the United States should participate in a world association of nations.

And a majority want price controls and supports continued for at least two years after V-Day.

The limited survey of 613 farmers was made, the government agency said, to find out what farmers are thinking about doing when peace comes so the information can be used in planning peacetime agricultural programs.

Farmers interviewed represented major farm areas, two-thirds of them farm owners and one-third tenants or hired workers. The bureau noted that the sample was small and said findings were only a "rough indication" of farmer thinking at present.

Two out of every three thought there would be no depression during the first three post war years and one half believed there would be better business. They saw high demands for agriculture products continuing for at least two years after the war but nearly all expected a depression "eventually."

Pierre Laval Doomed to Death by Tribunal

London, Oct. 20. Pierre Laval has been sentenced to death, in absentia by a Marseille tribunal, the Paris radio said today.

A warrant for the arrest of the Vichy chief of government, now either sheltering with or held by the Germans, was issued by the tribunal two weeks ago and it was stated then that he would be tried whether he was present or not.

Stop Thief

Odessa, Minn., Oct. 20—(AP)—The village police are trying to solve a new line of thevery.

The council is offering a reward for the arrest and conviction of the thief who has stolen "stop" signs and other street markers from the village streets.

MacArthur Appeals

is the force committed from without.

"Rally to me. Let the indomitable spirit of Bataan and Corregidor lead on. As the lines of battle roll forward to bring you within the zone of operations, rise and strike; strike at every favorable opportunity. For your homes, and hearts, strike! For future generations of your sons and daughters, strike! In the name of your sacred dead, strike! Let no heart be faint! Let every arm be steeled. The guidance of Divine God points the way. Follow in his name to the Holy grail of righteous victory!"

MacArthur's call for guerrilla warfare was a summons to thousands of Filipinos who have been operating in roving bands throughout the islands, sometimes under American leadership, since the fall of Bataan. And it was a plea for others to join their numbers.

The extent of guerrilla activities was recognized by the puppet government a year ago when it voted to grant amnesty to any guerrilla who would swear "to become a good citizen."

MacArthur's Report

Washington, Oct. 20—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that operations in the Philippines are proceeding on schedule with light losses and that the enemy was caught strategically off guard by the attack.

The President read to his news conference a message received last night from General Douglas MacArthur and addressed to General George C. Marshall, Army Cheif of Staff. In it MacArthur said the troops he commanded in the Philippine landing suffered "extremely light losses" and added that the enemy was caught unaware because he expected the attack further to the south.

MacArthur's message said the attack left the Japanese forces on Mindanao, "large island to the south of Leyte where he landed," "no longer an important factor" because they are practically cut off.

Roosevelt said the message confirming the attack which reached Washington shortly before 1 a. m. today, may have been delayed through Japanese attempts to jam the air communications. It had been expected earlier.

There is general satisfaction all over the country, the president said and he is particularly happy that General MacArthur has made good on his dream and his statement to return to the Philippines

With our allies, he said, "we shall teach this lesson so that Japan will never forget it."

As American troops plunged into the central Philippines, Roosevelt in a statement promised freedom to the island as soon as MacArthur's forces clear out the Japanese, saying:

"We shall free the enslaved peoples. We shall restore stolen goods and looted wealth to their rightful owners. We shall strangle the black dragon of Japanese militarism forever."

The president declared that "we have learned our lesson about Japan. We trusted her and treated her with the decency due a civilized neighbor. We were foully betrayed. The price of the lesson was high. Now we are going to teach Japan her lesson."

In a message to MacArthur, the president said "you have the nation's gratitude and the nation's prayers for success as you and your men fight your way back to Bataan. The whole American nation today exults at the news that the gallant men under your command have landed on Philippine soil."

Roosevelt disclosed that the plan of attack was discussed by him and MacArthur when they met at Pearl Harbor in mid-summer. The President said several propositions had been discussed before he got there, and he went over all of them.

Very soon after his return to Washington, he said, the attack plan was agreed upon officially and actual preparations were made for carrying it out.

Hungary's Puppet Chief Asks for Nazi Help

Stockholm, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Budapest correspondent of Stockholm's Tidningen said today that Ferenc Szalasi, premier of Hungary's new puppet government, had visited Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden to appeal for German reinforcements to bolster his regime.

The correspondent said that instead of granting the request Hitler had demanded that Szalasi organize "suicide units" to cover German forces withdrawing from Hungary.

Every Able-Bodied

ly disclosing the invasion in broadcasts over Tokyo radio, said they began Tuesday on Suluan island at the entry of Leyte gulf and proceeded in great force Thursday on Leyte at Tacloban on the northeast and Cabalian on the south.

Aboard Giant Convoy

Fulfilling his promise, made two years and seven months ago when he took sad leave of the islands that "I shall return," MacArthur went back aboard a warship. It was part of a giant convoy, sailing from New Guinea, which stretched out further than the eye could see.

The American Navy in unchallenged strength, ruled the invasion scene and the seas about it.

Allied airforces virtually monopolized the skies.

"In a major amphibious operation, we have seized the eastern coast of Leyte island in the Philippines, 600 miles north of Morotai and 2,500 miles from Milney bay (New Guinea) from where our offensive started nearly 16 months ago," the communique stated.

"This point of entry in the Visayas (group of islands of which Leyte is one) is midway between Luzon (site of Manila) and Mindanao and at one strike splits in two the Japanese forces in the Philippines.

"The enemy's anticipation of attack in Mindanao (southern island blasted daily since September by MacArthur's Southwest Pacific air arm) caused him to be caught unawares in Leyte and beachheads in the Tacloban area were secured with small casualties."

Preparatory Blows

Participating in the preparatory blows were carrier planes of Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet which since Oct. 9 destroyed more than 1,300 Japanese aircraft, sank 86 ships and damaged 127 more in forays extending from the Ryukyus within 200 miles of Japan south across Formosa into the Philippines.

"Our ground troops are rapidly extending their positions and supplies and heavy equipment are already flowing ashore in great volumes," the communique said.

The ground troops included every able bodied man who escaped from Corregidor in Manila Bay prior to its surrender May 6, 1942.

Those Heroes came back bent on avenging the men who died there and helping liberate the imprisoned men of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright.

The U. S. Seventh Fleet, elements of the Third Fleet and an Australian squadron made up the naval forces in the invasion.

"Air support was given by Navy carrier forces, by the Far East airforce and by the Royal Australian airforce," the communique said.

Against Biggest Jap Force

The invasion brought the Americans against the largest segment of the Japanese army yet encountered in the Pacific war. The estimated 225,000 defenders included Terauch's 14th army troops. Seven divisions, the 16th, 25th, 30th, 100th, 102nd, 103rd and 106th or 107th have been identified.

"The strategic result of capturing the Philippines will be decisive," General MacArthur pointed out in the communique.

"The enemy's so-called Greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere will be cut in two. His conquered empire to the south comprising the Dutch East Indies and the British possessions of Borneo, Malaya and Burma will be severed from Japan proper. The great flow of transportation and supply upon which Japan's vital war industry depends will be cut as will the counter supply of his forces to the south."

"A half million men will be cut off without hope of support and with ultimate destruction at the leisure of the allies, a certainty in the broad strategical conception.

"The defensive line of the Japanese which extends along the coast of Asia from Japan islands through Formosa, the Philippines, the East Indies to Singapore and Burma will be pierced in the center, permitting an envelopment to the south and to the north.

Jap Flanks Vulnerable

"Either flank will be vulnerable and can be rolled up at will.

Dean Schedler, Associated Press war correspondent with the invasion forces, said:

"This is one of the most far-reaching amphibious operations of all time—extending 1,300 miles. This huge convoy assembled at bases in Dutch New Guinea the afternoon of Friday the 13th. Ships of every description moved slowly into echelon position. We advanced in strict radio silence and in stealthy blackout".

Aboard ship, Schedler wrote:

"This is the mailed-fist answer to the enemy and to the hopes of those grim, silent men of MacArthur who remained behind but remembered his pledge:

"'I shall return'.

"Long hard months of jungle fighting in New Guinea—Milne Bay—New Britain—and Hollandia are behind us.

Beginning of Liberation

"This is the beginning of the liberation of the Philippines".

On Way Out

Carrollton, Ill., Oct. 20—(AP) — Dobbin's favorite parking place in Carrollton for the last 100 years, a hitching rack which surrounds court house square, is on the way out.

Proposals to remove the relic of horse and buggy days have been before the county board of supervisors many times in the last 20 years, but always there were sufficient protests to keep it. Latest hearing on the proposal brought no objections.

The Japanese landed on Luzon Dec. 9, 1941 after air raids the day before. Manila, bombed by the Japanese after it was declared an open city, was occupied along with the Cavite naval base Jan. 2, 1942. Thereafter began the siege of Bataan whose defenders fought until they were without food and arms, then surrendered only to be mustered into the "Death March" of bitter memory for every American.

Corregidor surrendered May 6, 1942. The previous March, MacArthur arrived in Australia and soon opened the offensive which was climaxed this week by the Philippines reinvasion.

In a communique last night at Pearl Harbor, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported carrier plane strikes Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Manila area and to the north. These were combined with land-based strikes of MacArthur's bombers to knock out every Philippine air base which might interfere with the invasion operations.

Landed at Three Points

Schedler reported from Leyte that the landings occurred at three points.

One force landed between San Ricardo, approximately three miles south of the main city of Tacloban, and Palo.

Another strong force landed along the coastline between San Jose and Dulag.

A combat team went ashore at Panaon on the southern tip of Leyte.

The beach fronts are three and one-half miles in width and approximately 11 miles apart.

Schedler said that combat teams landed previously on the northern tip of Dinagat island and the southern portion of Homonhon to secure enemy installations and command the entrance to Leyte Gulf for passage of the main assault forces.

On the Philippines, guerrillas long have been operating against the Japanese in preparation for the return of the Americans. Last week, a Japanese authority frankly acknowledged these guerrillas were effectively cutting up communications.

far less than 225,000 men they are estimated to have now, and more caution may be necessary.

One thing we have that the Japanese did not, however, may prove of great importance. That is our carefully pre-arranged organization of native guerrillas and American survivors. It may be a principal factor in MacArthur's reported optimism regarding a comparatively rapid conquest, reducing the time ratio from that required on other bitterly defended islands already taken.

That every able-bodied veteran of Bataan and Corregidor has been summoned to participate in MacArthur's revenge is a typical bit of Olympian justice. These men carry a mental picture of their comrades trudging northward after the bloody Bataan defeat, staggering beneath the blows of Japanese sabers, griped by hunger, dying of untended wounds and disease, choking as their sadistic captors drained canteens which they were not allowed to touch. It will not be nice for the Japanese who oppose these men on the road back.

Tragic News Again Reaches Polo Home of Mrs. Don Doyle

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, Oct. 20—Mrs. Donald Doyle of Polo, who son, Lieut. (j. g.) John H. Savage, U. S. N. R. met death in an airplane crash Sept. 8, today received word from her sister, Mrs. Walker Bell of Indiana, the former Adeline McLaughlin, to the effect that her husband, Pvt. Walker Bel, had been seriously wounded in the battle for Germany.

Mrs. Doyle has also received the following letter from the navy department concerning her son's death:

Further reference is made to this bureau's telegram of recent date in which you were informed that your son, Lt. (jg) John Joseph Savage, USNR, was reported missing in action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country.

According to information received in this bureau, your son has been in the missing status since Sept. 8, when his plane crashed into the sea as the result of bomb blast which disintegrated the tail. Further details are not available at this time.

Sincere sympathy is extended to you in your anxiety. Should further information be received you will be promptly notified.

Iowa City Fandom Gets Double Treat Over Grid Weekend

Purdue Meets Hawkeyes, Pre-Flight Seahawks Engage Ft. Warren

Chicago, Oct. 20—(AP)—Iowa connoisseurs of football will have a double dish served to them at Iowa City this week-end. Purdue, loser last week to Iowa Pre-Flight, meets twice beaten University of Iowa civilian squad tomorrow and the Seahawks play host to Fort Francis Warren of Wyoming on Sunday.

The Hawkeye game will be the first of four straight conference clashes for Coach Cecil Isbell's warriors who have their eyes set on at least a share of the Big Ten title. Iowa, beaten 34-0 by Illinois and 40-6 by Ohio State, are decided underdogs in tomorrow's contest. Coach Slip Madigan, still stressing "mental drills," yesterday held the lightest workout of an extremely light week for his Hawkeyes.

Purdue's civilian players will be joined tomorrow morning in Cedar Rapids by 15 Navy V-12 gridders before going on to Iowa City.

The Seahawks, undefeated since their opening game at Michigan, expect to run their victory string to five against Fort Warren, since officers of the preflight school will be eligible to play Sunday.

Although Fort Warren boasts a 21-20 triumph over the professional Brooklyn Tigers, the caliber of their opponents does not measure up to that of the Hawks.

Two injured regulars, Eddie Bray and George Bujax, did not make the trip . . . At Pittsburgh Coach Clark Shaughnessy said his proteges must stop the sweeps of Buddy Young and Paul Patterson to keep the game from turning into a track meet . . . Coach Ed McKeever of Notre Dame said Wisconsin would be primed to upset his Irish team and ran the varsity through forward pass defenses. He also had Bob Kelly, Steve Nemeth and George Terlep busy practicing field goals . . . Coach Bo McMillin and 37 Indiana university football players left today for Evanston for their tilt with Northwestern. The Wildcats concentrated on defensive measures against the Hoosiers' passing attack. Coach Lynn Waldorf learned yesterday he would lose a dozen V-12 men by transfer Nov. 1 . . . Bowling Bits

By "FRIDAY"

In the Commercial league last night, Peter Pipers held onto their one game lead by winning three games from Lloyds. Frank Daschbach was high for the Town House five with 504 and Barger topped Lloyds with 419.

Carson "66" remained one game behind the leaders, with 12 wins and six losses by taking three from the Dixon Telegraph. Everett Brown led Carson's with 504 and Arnold Lund was high for the Telegraph with 385.

Dixon Hatchery took over third with 10-8 by winning three from Sparkys Fenders. Paul Joynt's 572 was tops for the Hatchery and John Smith rolled 576 to lead Sparkys.

Reynolds Wire was the other two-game winner, beating Three Aces with Cy Winebrenner leading the Wiremill with 527 and Dempsey's 414 high for Three Aces.

John Smith set a new high game and series with 224 and 576. Paul Joynt rolling the only other high games with 203-202. Dixon Hatchery rolled 2923 to set a new team series.

In the Men's league at Lincoln Lanes three squads, Pahnke's, Schulte's and Shinners rolled into a tie for the top spot with six wins and three losses. Pahnke's gained their share of the tie by winning two from Warner's with Schreiber's 500 topping Pahnke's and Chuck Emmert leading Warner's with 487.

Schulte's gained their share of the tie by winning three from Bowers with Schulte leading his five with 484 and Bowers topping his squad with 404.

Shinners also won three from Prindaville, Kobak's 528 leading Shinners and Prindaville rolling 454 for his team.

Erzinger's took three from the Country Hicks, to go into a tie for fourth with Warners, each having five wins and four losses. H. Morris led the Hicks with 431 and George Clayton was high for Erzingers with 478.

Pete Miller rolled 211 for a new high game, with Kobak turning in 203 to help him total 528 for a new series. Erzinger's set a new mark for the team high game with 1012 in their last set and Shinners turned in a new team series with 2935.

George Scott took over the low series spot in the Commercial loop but failed to push Clarence Paulsen out of the Doghouse, each rolling 114 for the low game. In the Lincoln Lanes Men's league Bowers' 108 was good for the low game, with Osborne taking the other spot with 381.

GIL DODDS, KID BROTHER RACE AT WHEATON MEET

Wheaton, Ill., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Gil Dodds, world's champion miler, is going to get a closeup on how his kid brother is progressing in distance running.

The country's top distance runner and Boston divinity student will be a "guest star" tomorrow at a triangular cross country meet by runners from the University of Chicago, Culver academy and Wheaton college. Gil's 17-year-old brother, Mike, is a member of the Wheaton college team.

The champion, out of competition since last spring will grant a handicap in the race, which is being staged for the benefit of the National War Fund.

JOLTIN' JOE DI MAGGIO IN U. S. ARMY HOSPITAL

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—(AP)—S/Sgt. Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee outfielder, today was in a Hamilton Field hospital after being flown back from Hawaii "for medical observation and treatment," the Army announced.

The nature of his illness was not revealed by the Army but previously published reports from Honolulu said he had been suffering from a stomach ailment.

DiMaggio will remain at Hamilton Field until assigned to a general hospital, the Army said.

DARKNESS PLUNGES GRID CONTEST INTO ARGUMENT

Biglerville, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The lights went out with two minutes left in the first half and the score 6-0—who won?

Coach Ken Bream of Biglerville high school, whose team hadn't scored, wants to play it over.

Coach Charlie Spangler believes his Red Lion gridders can claim a victory because, he says, refusal of authorities to refund spectators' money makes last night's game official.

PREP BANTER:

Coach Dolph Stanley, whose Taylorville state basketball champions of 1944 set a precedent by winning all 45 games played, isn't saying much about it, but his football team so far has won four straight with 119 points against opponents' six. His big test comes against Pana tonight.

It'll be teacher vs. pupil tomorrow when Coach Glenn "Pat" Holmes brings his undefeated Oak Park Huskies to Waukegan. The Waukegan coach, Leo Singer, was a squad member when Holmes, now in his 16th year at the Chicago suburb's school, was coaching at the U. of Wisconsin. Oak Park teams under Holmes have won nine suburban conference titles since '29 and from 1936 through 1940 were undefeated in 37 consecutive games.

RAY "SUGAR" ROBINSON PREPS FOR ENCOUNTER

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York, listed by the National Boxing Association as leading contender for the world welterweight title, was due to arrive today to wind up training for a 10-round bout next Friday with Sgt. Lou Woods in Chicago stadium. Woods is stationed at nearby Fort Sheridan.

—Pegler is back. He has returned from his vacation and his daily column "Fair Enough" will be found on Pg. 4.

Illini Prep for Scrap With Irish

Chicago, Oct. 20—(AP)—It's still a week away, but the battle between Notre Dame and Illinois at Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28 looms as the most thrilling Illini homecoming game since that memorable day in 1921 when Harold (Red) Grange flitted to undying football fame.

The Irish have only to brush aside an underdog Wisconsin team tomorrow to invade Champaign unbeaten in four games. The amazingly swift Illini, defeated by Purdue in a race-horse contest, go to Pittsburgh for their sixth encounter and an expected "breather" against Pitt.

There should be shades of Grange, the original "galloping ghost", when Notre Dame's Bob Kelly and Illinois Claude (Buddy) Young open the throttle in the stadium Grange dedicated 20 years ago with football's classic individual performance.

Young Buzz Bomb

Young, a 5-foot, 5-inch, 160 pound buzz bomb, is unquestionably the nation's fastest back. In five games, he has bolted to eight touchdowns, rolling up 411 yards from scrimmage for an average of 11.8 yards each of the 35 times he has lugged the leather.

Kelly, described by Irish Coach Ed McKeever as one of the best backs he has ever seen, has scored six touchdowns in three games, carrying the ball 302 yards in 31 tries for an average of 8.8 yards per try.

The Irish, despite a pair of unerring passers in Frank Dancewicz and Joe Gasparella, have rolled up 1,034 yards on the ground in three games. The Illini have rambled 1,651 yards overland in five contests.

You can mark it down that Coach Eliot will point his squad for the Irish visitation like no other game this season. Last season, Notre Dame's Navy-Marine loaded team trimmed Illinois 47-0.

Nelson

Attorney Edward A. Jones was a caller in Nelson Tuesday afternoon.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Oct. 20—(AP)—Commander Gene Tunney, who ought to know something about the subject, says that to make a good boxer you should get a boy who is naturally just a little timid . . . "I don't mean he should be afraid", explains Gene, "but a boy who doesn't like to take a punch naturally develops the instinctive moves for good defensive boxing". . . . Since Coach Frank Murray introduced the modern "T" formation into southern football, his Virginia teams have played 30 games and scored 583 points—averaging better than 19 a game . . . when Saint Thomas marched to the ring to be stiffened by Melio Bettina the other night, his fiddler, Little David, followed playing "I'll be seeing you in all the old familiar places" . . . Sounds as if he had his spot on the canvas picked out.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Sgt. Buck Erickson, Camp Ellis, Ill., News: "Don't take too seriously this belief that we have football at Camp Ellis solely for the entertainment of the personnel—that's strictly for the birds. The Army is a winner . . . The Army like to win—that's the most fortunate thing in the world for America".

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Chalky Wright's purse for the Willie Pep fight, which was held up until he fulfilled a contract to fight in Washington, has been released. Gen. Phelan, the local head man, now is convinced that Promoter Joe Turner really didn't want to use Chalky . . . Kenny Iyenaga, American-born Japanese halfback on the Oneida, N. Y., high school football team, took a kickoff on his own 20-yard line the other day, went back 10 yards and then went for a touchdown against Canastota.

HEADACHE FOR HOWLERS

The gasoline company that goes for football broadcasts has bought the rights to so many big games that it recently had to run a three day school for announcers so it would have enough men to handle them all. Meantime some of the better-known broadcasters who work for other outfits have had to take less important games . . . and, without mentioning names, we've heard some spielers who sound as if they had acquired their football knowledge in three days.

SERVICE DEPT.

Pfc. Frank "Creepy" Crespi, former Cardinals' shortstop who busted his leg in a G. I. baseball game last summer, got into a wheel chair race in the corridor of a Topeka, Kas., hospital recently, crashed into the wall and broke his gam again . . . the "World Series Extra" of the Sixth Infantry "Cocktatoo" reports that a big winter sports program is about to start in New Guinea . . . In the Philippines too, we hope.

Cook County Tired of Machine: Green

(By The Associated Press)

Republican governors have re-established "sound, honest government which seeks impartially the welfare of all the citizens, and which gives the individual citizen a rebirth of confidence in his government," says Gov. Dwight H. Green.

The Illinois governor, Republican candidate for re-election, addressing a meeting of representatives of Cook county municipalities last night, said that the people of the county "are tired of the dishonesty, corruption and flagrant misuse of public funds" by the Cook county machine."

Richard J. Lyons, GOP nominee for the U. S. senate, speaking at the same meeting, said the Democrats were "preparing a last minute smear campaign of which I am to be the principal target."

In a broadcast campaign address, Lt. Gov. Hugh A. Cross, candidate for re-election, asserted that Americans were "living in . . . a fool's paradise" based on war prosperity.

"I say it is a property brought on by blood, but we must sadly concede it is the basis of the new deal plan to return Roosevelt," Cross said.

Speaking at a Sparta, Ill., party rally, Sen. C. Wayland Brooks (R-Ill) said the re-election of President Roosevelt would result in Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman "continuing to fasten their un-American philosophies on the American people with the help of a packed court."

Heroes of South France Invasion Are Honored

Rome, Oct. 20—(AP)—Rear Admiral Lyal A. Davidson, commander of the naval gunfire support forces during the campaigns in Sicily, Salerno, Anzio and southern France, has been presented the Gold Star, in lieu of a second distinguished service medal, by Vice Admiral H. Kent Hewitt, commander of U. S. naval forces in the Mediterranean.

Davidson, a native of Davenport, Ia., now has his home at Newport, R. I.

Other Gold Stars, in lieu of second legions of merit, for outstanding performance of duty in the southern France invasion were awarded to Capt. R. K. Davis, Washington, D. C., and Capt. Walter Answer, Elgin, Ill.

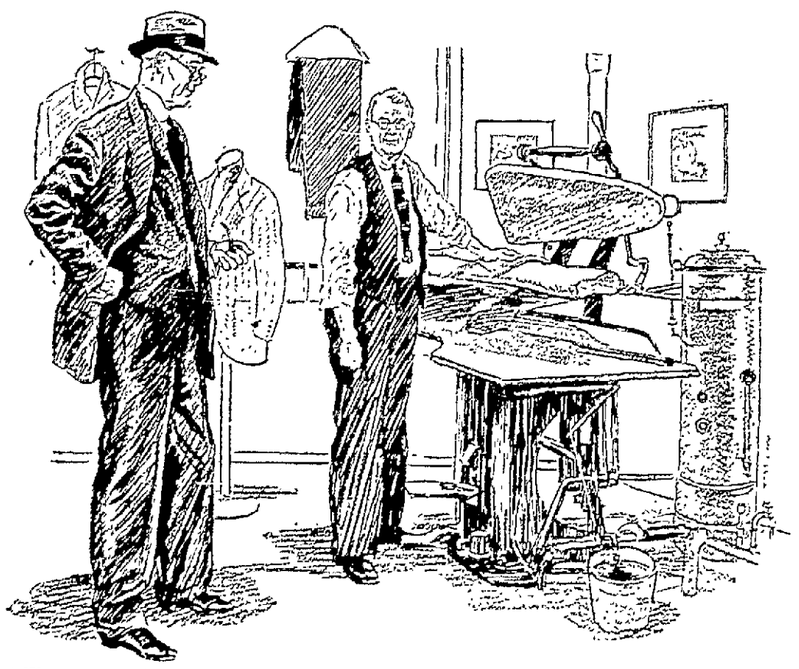
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"The war stories I like best, Judge, are the ones by the special writers overseas who live right with our troops. They give us a better idea of how our men react to things going on over there and back here at home."

"I agree with you, Sam. I never miss one of those stories in the papers or magazines. And there's one thing those writers seem to agree on no matter where they are stationed with our men...and that is that the men who have left their homes and families to go away and fight this war don't want to come back and find that prohibition has been put over on them while they were away...either nationally or locally. They have heard about the attempts being made and they resent it bitterly."

"I agree with them, Judge, even though I don't happen to drink myself. Furthermore, I don't think it's fair for us at home to be making any major changes while 10,000,000 of our fighting men are away and have no chance to express their opinions."

Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Michel and family of Farmington and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Michel.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Gehant visited friends in Dixon Sunday.

Joe Lindemeyer had the third finger of his right hand amputated Sunday at the Harris hospital. The second finger on the same hand was removed several months ago. Both of the fingers were injured about a year ago when pinched by a limb as it was being sawed from a tree. Mr. Lindenmeyer's many friends wish him a speedy and satisfactory recovery.

Frank Conschack of Odell and Al Loeback of LaSalle visited with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Holdren and other friends on Sunday afternoon.

Gene Michel of St. Bede's spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Michel.

Mr. and Mrs. Philly Fassig visited Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Weitzel.

ISN'T THIS JAP BASE AT WENDAO ONLY A FEW MILES NORTH O' THE VILLAGE WHERE I MET TANA, SERGEANT?
THAT'S RIGHT, CAPTAIN. TH' JAPS BUILT IT WITH FILIPINO LABOR, SOON AFTER BATAAN... THEN DISMISSED ALL BUT FELIPE
YOU SEE, THEY THOUGHT I WAS PRO-JAP, SIR... AND THEY NEEDED A SKILLED CABINET-MAKER
ANYWAY, FELIPE LEARNED THEIR BASE, INSIDE OUT, BEFORE THEY GOT WISE TO HIM AND HE HAD TO SKIP
AFTER HE JOINED US, WE WORKED ON PLANS TO RAID WENDAO BUT GAVE IT UP AS IMPRACTICAL... BESIDES, WE HAD NO WAY TO PASS ON ANY INFORMATION WE'D GET WE'VE GOT A WAY TO PASS IT ON NOW! LET'S GET DOWN TO BUSINESS!

Guerrilla Bands in Philippines May Be of Aid to Yankees

By RAY CRONIN

When the saga of guerilla warfare against the Japanese in the Philippines is written after the war, hundreds of names of heroic Americans and Filipinos must be inscribed on the roll of those who faced death constantly as they battled against the invaders.

During the years the enemy has been in control of America's prewar Western Pacific outpost, by his own admission, he has not been able to stamp out the guerrillas who have made Japanese life there a thing of uncertainty.

For reasons of security there are many things about the guerrillas that cannot be told at this time. Yet we know they have been effective and that they have clung to certain areas in spite of desperate Japanese efforts.

Some U. S. Soldiers

Some of the guerrilla bands are made up of American soldiers and sailors and their Filipino followers. Others are purely Filipino. Still others, led by Filipinos, contain American service men and civilians. At least one band was led by an American oldtimer, a former army officer.

The guerrillas have been so successful in some sectors that the Japanese dare not use certain highways. In others they have disrupted railroad traffic, sabotaged shipping and killed off Japanese outposts.

They worked right in the Manila area killing off Japanese and suspected Quislings. They sabotaged telephone and other lines of communication.

The work of the guerrillas was not confined totally to killings and destruction. At least one band employed radio propaganda to sabotage Japanese efforts to gain complete control of the islands.

Had Japs Furious

For instance there was Juan de la Cruz, young Filipino whose radio activities had the Japanese furious during the 21 months I spent in a Manila prison camp after Pearl Harbor. Juan de la Cruz is the Filipino equivalent of the American John Doe.

Juan and his band got hold of a portable transmission set and took it upon themselves to replace the Corregidor "Voice of Freedom" station after the island fell to the Japanese. Juan operated in the Manila area, moving fast and often. He opened his programs with an American military song and closed with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Juan most likely never heard of a Mississippi river pilot of the old days. Yet his language was on a par with, and at times even exceeded, the wildest vocal flights of the river bosses. He cursed the Japanese, from the mightiest to the lowest, and their Quislings, in English, Spanish and his own Tagalog. He warned the Quislings that they would be taken care of when American forces returned to the islands. He named some who later were killed or wounded by guerrillas. He gave away Japanese military secrets.

Personally, I am convinced that our forces re-entering the Philippines will find well-trained guerrilla bands as well as the Filipino people generally welcoming them and fighting with them against the Japanese.

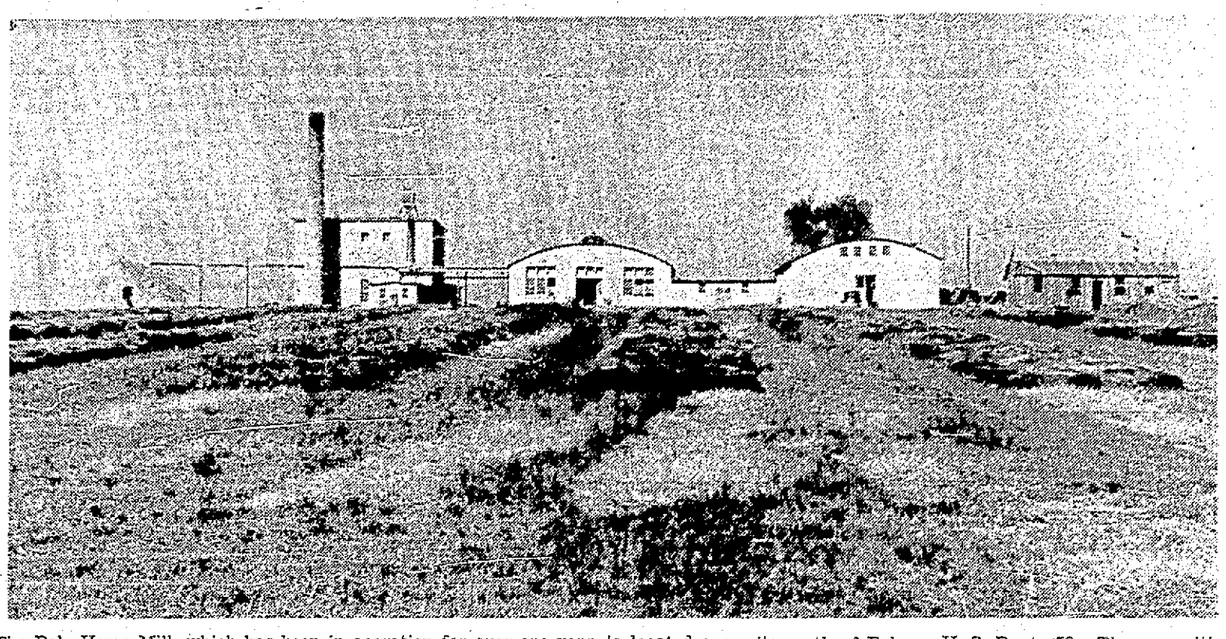
POLO HEMP MILL IN FULL PRODUCTION-----MAY CONTINUE AS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY AFTER THE WAR



The Polo Hemp Mill, which has been in operation for over one year, is located one mile south of Polo on U. S. Route 52. The war with Japan in the far east cut off the raw materials necessary for the making of manila rope in the United States and a substitute became necessary early in the conflict. Similar hemp mills were erected at strategic points throughout the midwest for the processing of hemp.

Nearly 100 men and women are employed at the mill, many of whom live in adjacent communities. A few of the department heads and staff members are shown above and are, from the left, front row: Ralph Bennett, fire chief; Henry Rebuck, janitor; Grace Buskohl, Marcella Schadler, clerk; Violet Walb; Albert Cashman, shop foreman; Charles Ferris, fiber grader; Howard Dennis, field superintendent. Back row, from the left; Louis Bergan, engineer; Henry Bormenemeier, stock yard foreman; H. R. Dyas, general manager; Alfred Pyfer, field superintendent; Virgil Garst, fireman; K. A. Preston, master mechanic; Clarence Hodge, mill foreman, and Walter Barton.

The public domain in the United States include about 175,000,000 acres of which about 23,000,000 acres are forest land.

Before World War II, 390,437 Americans had established permanent homes outside the United States.

Hemp Mill at Polo Enters Second Year Processing Fiber

War-Born Industry is Likely to Continue After Hostilities

When the war in the east cut off the raw materials necessary for the making of rope, the United States government decided to sponsor a substitute product here in this country and Polo was chosen as one of a number of communties where hemp was to be grown and a hemp mill erected. The project was organized under the name of War Hemp Industries and for the second year now farmers in the vicinity of Polo have had a new cash crop.

Between oats and corn planting time the seed is drilled into prepared ground. It has been found that soil which is suitable for corn is usually good for hemp also.

During the blossoming period in the fall the factory furnishes cutting machines to the farmers who are raising hemp and the stalks are then cut and laid in rows at right angles to the direction the machine goes.

A process known as "retting" then takes place while the rain and the sun toughen up the outside fibers so that they may be separated from the rest of the sulks in the factory. When this process is completed in a month or so, depending upon the weather, binders are sent out from the factory and the hemp is tied in bundles and shocked in the field.

During the late fall and early winter the shocks are brought to the factory and staked in the open field around the bunilding. Then, as it is needed in the mill, it is hauled in ready for processing.

The first thing in the milling process is to dry the hemp. The stalks are piled evenly on a moving belt of rollers and are thus carried through the drier where air of a sufficient temperature to dry the stalks in a little over an hour is forced through it.

Then the stalks are taken in small handfuls and put butt end first into a machine which breaks them up in such a way as to take out the center material and leave the outside which is the fiber that is wanted. The inside, or the "hurds" as they are called, furnish fuel for the furnaces and also make good bedding for farmers who care to come and haul it away. The huge white piles of material back of the plant is the excess hurds.

After this inside waste material has been taken out by different mechanical processes the long fibers are taken by the handfull and are carded to take out the twisted material at the ends.

The len gribers are then stacked in on place and are baled together while the short twisted fibers are put in another type of bale.

The long fibers are the ones which are used in making rope, while the short ones go to make thread and finer material. One of the strongest shoe threads that can be found is made from hemp fibers.

Rope which is made from hemp is more flexible and pliable than the former type which was made from the fibers of the Abaca plant.

The men and women who are employed at the Polo plant find that the hemp is surprisingly light in weight. Very few of the jobs at the plant require hard physical labor, which has made the hemp industry fit into the war program better than other industries.

Hemp has been raised for some years in Wisconsin and the soil around Polo has proven especially good for raising the crop it is possible that it may continue to be a main indusry even after the war emergency is over.

Hemp is drilled into the soil in the early part of May and does not require any particular care until the blossoming period, when the Polo Hemp Mill furnishes the farmers with cutting machines. After the hemp has laid in the fields for approximately a month, binders are then sent from the factory for gathering and binding. One of these machines can be seen in the photo above.

The processed hemp is packed into bales, weighing approximately 500 pounds, and are shipped from Polo in car load lots every week.

The area of the continental United States is 3,026,789 square miles, of which 53,013 square miles are water.

About one-half the coffee England uses comes from the British Empire.

Another Large Down-State Daily Endorses Tom Courtney

READ WHY--

Illinois State Register

---SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS---

Endorses

Thos. J. Courtney FOR Governor

Reprint of Editorial October 12, 1944

COURTNEY'S ABLE CAMPAIGN

With characteristic dignity, Thomas J. Courtney is carrying on an active campaign for election to the office of Governor of Illinois. Marshaling facts and figures, appealing to intelligence rather than to prejudice and avoiding distateful personalities, Tom Courtney has added to the conviction in millions of minds that if elected, he will be one of the ablest Governors ever to serve in that high office.

The economic necromancy and broken promises of the present State Administration are being stressed during this campaign by Mr. Courtney, who opposes the building up of an unnecessary surplus by excessive taxation when the taxpayers are asking for a reduction in the sales tax and in other revenues.

Candidate Courtney is less politician than statesman. He is a close student and proponent of the fundamentals of good government. Faithful public service is written into his official career. His private life is above reproach.

Eloquent indeed, is the tribute symbolized in the vote cast for Tom Courtney by Republicans and Democrats alike in his own County. Each time he has received majorities exceeding those of President Roosevelt—a total of 1,221,076 votes in 1940; 1,289,908 votes in 1936, and 945,684 votes in support of his first candidacy for State's Attorney in 1932. As heavy majorities were given him in those years when he did not have the aggressive support of the Cook county organization, he should now roll up a tremendous vote when harmony within the Democratic party is unimpaired, and people are to choose between the rival candidates for Governor on their merits.

When some of Mr. Courtney's opponents falsely insinuated that he is a machine politician, he gladly accepted that challenge. He has pointed out, to the discouragement of his foes, that the present State administration has built up a ruthless machine, that it handpicked the entire State ticket, including the unspeakable isolationist, Stephen A. Day, for Congress-at-large, thus nullifying the underlying principle of the State primary laws.
